Electric Utilities Connect Customers & Suppliers at Energy into Action Trade Show

Hydro One Brampton along with six other utility companies hosted the 2nd Energy Management Trade Show, bringing together energy management companies in the GTA on September 25th.

On Wednesday, September 25th Hydro One Brampton along with Enersource, Horizon Utilities, Hydro One, Oakville Hydro Electricity Distribution, PowerStream, and Toronto Hydro hosted the Energy into Action Trade Show where over 500 attendees viewed the latest technologies, products and services available to the energy management industry. Organized by the seven electric utilities, the day event grew in size with over 56 vendors offering products and energy management solutions.

The show was designed to promote the saveONenergy programs and learn about the incentives but also, just as important, to promote networking opportunities between the utility companies and customers, delivery companies and solution providers. “We are pleased about the success of this energy management show and we are particularly excited about the number of exhibitors.” said Remy Fernandes, President and CEO of Hydro One Brampton. “The main reason for this event was to partner with the other electric utilities and promote the saveONenergy programs to businesses. We exceeded our expectations both in terms of attendance and innovation”.

The trade show was comprised of both a networking and educational component and was held at the International Centre. The educational component featured an impressive agenda that included eleven 45-minute informational sessions. Topics ranged from, reviewing the latest OPA news and updates to how participating in the Demand Response program can gain your company a new revenue stream.
